KING'S in 1964—a junior college with a greatly increased student body and faculty, expanded facilities and activities, and a curriculum designed to perpetuate the modern concept of “Education for Business.”

The nearly one thousand students who today overflow the halls and classrooms form a sharp contrast to the thirty-five students who occupied the halls of the “old” King’s in 1943. These thirty-five came to be instructed in the limited “commercial” or “stenographic” courses of the day; those of today come for more extensive training in areas such as Business Administration, the secretarial sciences, and accounting with IBM automation.

Each year brings to King’s more and more facets of “college living,” which are in evidence in the bustling dormitory life, in the ever-growing athletic program, and in the general social activities of the students. Each year brings to the administration the culmination of many hours of planning and the challenge of future growth.

The year 1964 was an exciting and eventful year in the life of King’s. It is this year that the KASTLE endeavors to depict.

Dr. Hoke discusses the athletic program with Coach McMillan.

Dedication

We admire his intellect and scholarship; we appreciate the challenge of his conviction that King's College students are capable of high scholastic achievement; we are grateful for his sincere interest in our needs for success and for the standards he has helped to establish and maintain as Director of Guidance and teacher of Psychology and salesmanship here at King's College—for these reasons the yearbook staff affectionately dedicates this 1965 edition of the KASTLE to DR. ROY EDWARD HOKE.

DR. HOKE: " 'Every man is two men—the man he is and THE MAN HE COULD BE.' BE DIFFERENT!"

ADMINISTRATION FACULTY AND STAFF

An Educator with

Anything he touches grows! Contributing to progress and growth is certainly one of President Milo Kirkpatrick's attributes. Whether it be the growth of King's College, the development of a civic project, or the cultivation of a blue-ribbon blossom, his hand and his intellect are at work.

Just as a careful gardener nurtures each individual plant, so he gives to each student careful attention and consideration. From his garden and his college come prize-winning results.

The growth and quality of King's College reflect his administrative and organizational talents. And through the application of these many talents, he has won deserved recognition as an educator and civic leader on both local, state, and national levels.

This year, as for the past twenty-one years, the student body has felt the able leadership and strong devotion of this master gardener and educator.

Mr. and Mrs. Kirkpatrick relax on their patio.

Varied Interests, Devoted to King's

He is a horticulturist by hobby.

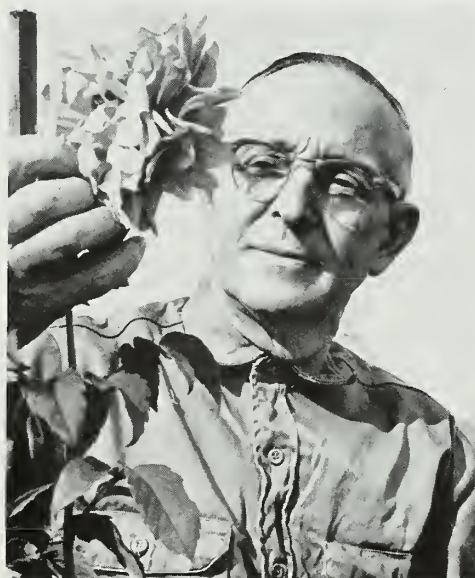

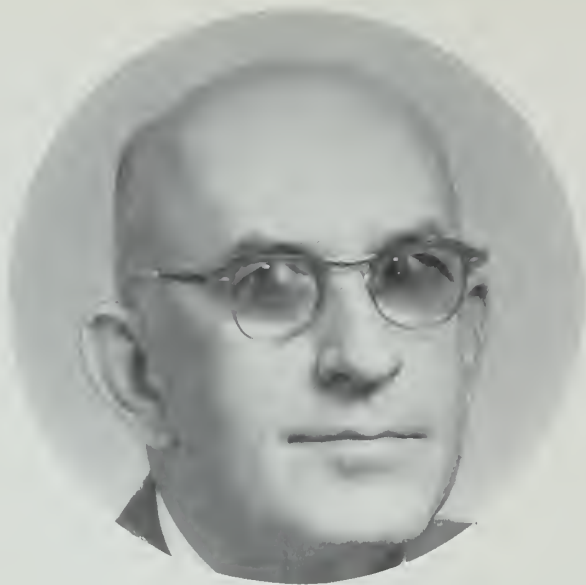

He observes them.

He grows them.

And sometimes he has an award winner.

Honor Graduates

Honor graduates for 1964 were presented trophies for outstanding scholastic achievement during the November graduation exercises at Ovens Auditorium. Awards were made in the fields of accounting, the secretarial sciences, business administration and general business.

In the Junior Division awards were made to Allene Jenkins Perry, Junior Accounting; Hubert M. Nicholson, Junior Accounting with IBM Automation; Lois Josephine Crocker, Junior Secretarial; Linda Gail McMackin, Advanced Secretarial; and Barbara Kaye Fincher, General Business. Recipients of Senior Division awards were Jerry L. Carnes, Senior Accounting; Loretta Joyce Phillips, Executive Secretarial; Blenda Grigg Harper, Medical Secretarial; Clarence Arthur Pittman, Business Administration—Management, and Reid Tull, Jr., Business Administration—Sales.

Honor Graduate, Janie Christine Brackett, was graduated with a quality point average of 3.93. While at King's, Chris served as president of Alpha Delta sorority, editor of the Broadcaster, graduation marshal, cheerleader, and May Queen.

King's is very proud of these students who strived so diligently to attain such high goals of scholastic achievement.

ORGANIZATIONS

Another Year of Work and Play

Alpha Delta Sorority will remember 1964 as a year of varied, stimulating activities. Worthwhile projects—working for United Appeal and March of Dimes, aiding needy families, entertaining the aged—were the results of the group's desire to render community service. The 1964 calendar also included many social and cultural activities such as concerts, plays, swimming and ice skating parties.

This year, as before, the girls of Alpha Delta endeavored to create stronger ties of friendship within their group, to develop worthy leadership, and to promote participation in community cultural activities.

Mrs. Moore, Adviser; Nancy Dailey, President; Jinki Hewitt, Vice-President; Irene Roberson, Secretary; Emily Melton, Treasurer.

Kappa Beta Chi Members

This was an eventful year for the Kappa Beta Chi Chapter of Phi Theta Pi Fraternity. In addition to quarterly dinner meetings, the group sponsored dances, ice skating parties, and beach trips.

The most notable achievement for the year was the compiling and publishing of a college student-faculty directory. This directory lists the phone numbers for both the home address and local address of each student. Also, the phone number and address of each instructor is given.

By sending representatives to the Spring Conclave in Toledo, Ohio, and the Fall Conclave in Des Moines, Iowa, the chapter participated in national activities.

Kappa Beta Chi members traveled to Raleigh in the summer of 1964 to install the Delta Upsilon Chapter of Hardbarger Business College as members of Phi Theta Pi Fraternity.

Ruger Parker, Vice-President; James Starnes, President; Jay Heavner, Recording Secretary; James Dowless, Corresponding Secretary; Jimmy Barbee, Treasurer.

1964—What a year! After all the long hours of deliberating, the confusion of picture taking, and the agony of copywriting, the KASTLE Staff finished the yearbook with a great sigh of relief.

Weary, but proud, the staff passes on to you the results of its efforts—this record of a year in the life of King's.

Forth to Victory

With a spirited new coach and new team, the King's Lassies fought hard and ended a triumphant season of wins over both college and Industrial League competition.

This year's team consisted of girls who had played high school basketball and some who had won all-conference honors. However, because the girls lacked the experience of having played together, the season opened with little promise of success.

The final outcome of the season can be attributed to the energy, enthusiasm and determination of Coach Ed Wells, and the girls to produce a winning team. Employing cunning coaching techniques, Coach Wells molded a winning team worthy of facing the stiffest competition.

Coach Wells yells directions from the side lines.

"All right, girls, let's go."

Jump ball starts game.

Season of Play

The King's Knights completed another schedule as an independent team in a conference composed of other junior colleges. The team was fortunate to have the experience of several returning players from last year.

Under the able leadership of a new coach, Ralph McMillan, the team spent a strenuous, but rewarding, season of practice and play.

ACTIVITIES

New York-Washington—here we come!

Unisphere—symbol of the World's Fair.

On Thursday, August 6, a group of sixty-two students and seven faculty chaperones left for a college sponsored tour of the New York World's Fair and a brief stopover in Washington, D. C. While in New York, the tourists were guests of Columbia University.

After two "foot-weary" days of viewing the many dazzling sights of the Fair, the group toured Manhattan and attended a show at Radio City Music Hall.

While in Washington, the sightseers were graciously entertained by Congressman Charles Raper Jonas. Congressman Jonas guided the visitors on a tour of the House of Representatives and invited them to lunch in the Congressional cafeteria.
